

TurnKey Internet Releases New Voxwire Gold Web Conferencing

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Albany, NY, February 2, 2011—Web solutions provider TurnKey Internet today announced the launch of Voxwire Gold, the newest edition of their cloud-based (SaaS) web conferencing and online meeting service. Voxwire Gold is designed for collaborating and communicating via the Internet for online meetings, remote training, distance learning, sales presentations, and large scale webinars. The new edition includes expanded features and improved performance.

Voxwire Gold offers easy-to-use web browser-based conferencing with high definition video, file sharing and remote desktop control to provide a lifelike multi-user meeting environment. Its platform-independent Adobe Flash™-based architecture offers instant access from any web browser with no software download required. Account holders schedule conferences, invite participants, and can assign moderators to share control at any time during the meeting. A multi-use whiteboard offers easy presentation and collaboration. Media and file sharing features allow for the seamless integration of documents, presentations and video.

“We are thrilled to be able to offer Voxwire Gold to our clients. It is an innovative, green-friendly communication tool to help them save money and increase efficiency,” said Adam Wills, President and CEO of TurnKey Internet. “Our Voxwire Web Conferencing brand has been a leader in the industry since 2002, but with this new release we are bringing ease-of-use to a feature set that makes web conferencing accessible to everyone.”

Voxwire Gold is available via the voxwire.com web site for a 14-day free trial, with service subscriptions starting at just $19 a month. TurnKey Internet also offers Voxwire Gold as part of its 12-product software-as-a-service business bundle, alongside other business tools such as TurnKey Virtual Office, TurnKey Newsletter, and TurnKey Vault Online Backups.
